Note from the Chair

We are currently having a call for nominations for positions in the SIGHT Steering Committee. This is an opportunity for rising leaders, or perhaps those who have already been doing Sustainable Development or Humanitarian Technology Activities OUTSIDE SIGHT to gain "a seat at the table" and participate in determining the future of this network. We seek to build a Steering Committee and related Subcommittees that is as diverse as SIGHT itself, with representatives from as many of IEEE's 10 regions as possible, and from a vast range of cultural, linguistic, and social backgrounds. The deadline for the nominations will be April 27. To read more about the key responsibilities and qualifications, click here.

Also, as a reminder, there are only a few days left to submit your SIGHT project proposals for the first deadline. Click here to read more and apply. Please note that the deadline is on 31 March.

We love to see people get involved and make a difference with the opportunities we are able to provide. We thank you for everything that you do and can't wait to see what is next!

Chair, IEEE SIGHT Steering Committee

Video: Planning for Long-term Project Sustainability (a recorded SIGHT Webinar)

It is important from the outset to plan for project sustainability when performing a SIGHT project. There are many cases where a group has gone into a community, performed an intervention, and then left. The intervention has then failed after some time and the community is left without the resource that is temporarily enjoyed.

Various factors need to be considered when planning for long-term project sustainability including: how will the system be sustained over time? Who will be responsible for sustaining the system? What are potential business models that could support an entrepreneurial solution? This webinar will aim to answer these questions and provide some case study examples to showcase ways in which organizations have sustained their projects over time.
• Do you have a sustainable business model?
• Extra revenue may be brought into the community
• Money may be saved by members of the community
• Tools to develop sustainable business models:
